An inquiry from X/Twitter DM:

What is the average spot price of our alerts?

Could an account with only a couple hundred dollars perform?

Thanks for the inquires — so just for facts, we have alerted 57 plays in October w/ the average spot being 5.32

Now, if you remove the pricier $NVDA $TSLA $AMZN and $AAPL plays (those are almost all 5-10.00) then there are plenty left in the reasonable contract size range — of note, the whopper call out for $TWTR (900% gainer) was a 1.00 con, the two $C alerts were under a dollar, and profit gainers from $MU and $LI were under 2.00 — lots of plays available

The majority of our plays are the next monthly exp. - nothing usually too close to exp.
